Integration of sustainability risks into our investment process

At Corinthian Venture Partners we believe that sustainability and profitability go hand in hand. By incorporating environmental, social and governance (ESG) into our investment analysis, decision-making and portfolio management we mitigate risk for investments as we firmly believe that companies that identify and manage these risks early are likely to survive longer, be more resilient, and create more value for stakeholders.

We have integrated sustainability as a part of our investment strategy through a four-stage process that involves:

1. Screening and due diligence
2. Investment phase
3. Portfolio management, monitoring and reporting
4. Exit

CVPs sustainability policy enables us to mitigate risks in investments, invest in diverse and inclusive teams, support UN sustainable development goals and help portfolio companies develop ESG criteria internally.
